A 24ha family estate run by tenth generation Stéphane Montez in Chavanay, a village in Condrieu. Working across steep, granite-influenced sites, the focus is on clarity of fruit and a precise expression of Syrah shaped by slope and exposure.

Tasting Notes

Syrah. Dark ruby colour; intense scents of blackcurrant and violet with nutmeg and pepper. Liquorice and vanilla on the elegant palate with a long, solid tannic structure with soft tannins.

Viticulture

The 24 hectare estate covers 3 appellations in the Northern Rhône; St. Joseph, Condrieu and Côte-Rôtie. The grapes are grown on very steep, terraced vineyards on the right bank of the river and are protected from the prevailing westerly winds by the neighbouring Mont du Pilat. Minimum intervention is the viticultural approach and all the vineyard work has to be done manually due to the steep gradients. This Côte-Rôtie comes from the southern part of the appellation on the Côte Blonde where the soils are primarily composed of gneiss. The blend is Syrah (95%) and Viognier (5%) with the Viognier being grown in the same plots.Harvesting is done by hand.
