Producer

Family run for 180 years, Xavier and Agnès Amirault are the latest generation to biodynamically farm 37 ha across 53 parcels in Saint-Nicolas-de-Bourgueil on the border of the Anjou and Touraine regions. The vineyards face south on gentle slopes and are made up of gravel, sand and clay over limestone. Cabernet Franc, locally known as 'Breton' is the dominant variety and in the winery Xavier adopts a pragmatic approach using both cement tanks and open top wooden casks for fermenting and both tanks and demi-muids for ageing. The emphasis here is firmly on elegance and finesse and in spite of their drinkability when young, they also age tremendously well.

Tasting Notes

Tasting : Seaside atmosphere or a taste of the countryside? Its "saline touch" will sublimate your seafood platter and you can even open another bottle for dessert, so much you appreciate its lightness (in alcohol).

Viticulture

Can be paired with a wide range of dishes at the table bringing many flavours into balance. hors d'oeuvres, oysters, shellfish, cooked, grilled or sauced fish and veal

Winemaking

Vinification : Our Pet'Night is made according to the "ancestral" method. This is one of the oldest methods for making sparkling wines. The grapes are pressed in whole bunches to collect the juice. After a very gentle cold settling, the alcoholic fermentation begins in vats, then the "juices" are bottled for the production of carbon dioxide or "prise de mousse"
