Producer

Based on 50 hectares Château Sainte Croix is now run by the fourth generation of the Pélépol family - Florence and Stéphane. An old fortified farm of the 12th Century the property was occupied by Cistercian monks. In 1924 the Pélépol family had the opportunity to buy 5 hectares of vines, having vinified their wines at the co-operative, they turned to Château Sainte Croix, then in rubble and rebuilt it to its former glory, producing wines on the surrounding lands ever since. In the winery, free run juice from Grenache, Cinsault and Syrah gives colour and fragrance to their classic Provence Rosé.

Tasting Notes

Intense notes of raspberry, blackcurrant and rose scents enhanced by a hint of fresh pomelo. The mouth is unctuous, voluminous and slightly acidic, which gives it a great elegance.
