> Zuccardi Valle de Uco brings together three generations of our family, united by our passion for cultivating wines that express the unique identity of the terroir

Zuccardi, founded by José Zuccardi, is a family-owned winery with a strong commitment to sustainability, innovation, and quality. The winery's name is inspired by the family's values and its connection to the land, specifically reflecting the founder's daughter, Julia Zuccardi. As the business continues to grow, the winery remains dedicated to producing wines and olive oils that showcase their passion for the region and commitment to environmental stewardship. Today, Zuccardi is recognized as one of the most important wineries in Argentina, both for its contribution to the country's wine industry and its leadership in organic farming.

Tasting Notes

This wine expresses the micro-terroir of our Finca Piedra Infinita vineyard in Paraje Altamira, Valle de Uco. The identity of this site is defined by its shallow alluvial soils, rich in stones of varying sizes coated with calcium carbonate. The wine is austere, pure, and tense, with aromas of very fresh red fruit and herbal notes. On the palate, it shows firm tannins, vibrant acidity, and a distinctive chalky texture typical of this place. It can be enjoyed now or cellared for many years. A true mountain wine.

Winemaking

"Manual harvest with bunch selection. Filling of vessels by gravity. Fermentation in concrete tanks with native yeasts. All of the wine was aged in concrete vessels."
