Born in Burgundy, Jean-Philippe Padié moved back to his grandparent's home in the Southwest in 2001. There he started this 15ha biodynamic domaine producing 30,000 bottles based in the middle of the rosemary and thyme garrigues of Calce in Roussillon. 7 varieties are planted within 30 parcels of vines, he works with complete respect for the soil, his biodynamic principals releasing life to the vines. His ability to bring the life of the vineyards into the glass is what attracted us to this domaine. In the winery he works with no additives or sulphur, the use of large format oak and clay funnel the vivacity of the soils. These wines move away from tradition for this region. The freshness and precision carried by insane minerality are something very special.

Tasting Notes

This is a complex savory, salty white with charming green plum notes, comprised of 40% Macabeu, 40% Grenache Blanc, and 20% Tourbat from 60 year old vines in the Roussillon.

Viticulture

Calce is famous for its tectonic marvel of striated bedrock -- a veritable playground for soil geeks and biodynamic seekers alike. Vines are pinstriped along limestone, clay, marl, and granite striations, allowing for many controlled fermentations and blends that put the prowess of a winemaker like Philippe at center stage. These wines are first class, always clean and elegant, always giving, and always fodder for lots of conversation.
