Based in Saint-Pierre-de-Clages in the commune of Chamoson, John and Mike Favre are well established figures in the Valais. Farming 7 ha and leasing a further 6 ha across 78 steep, schist-based parcels on the north side of the Rhône Valley, the brothers work one of Switzerland's most dramatic vineyard landscapes.

Tasting Notes

" Yellow color with golden reflections, nose dominated by scents of citrus fruits, warm rhubarb and wisteria. On the palate, supple attack developing on a solid structure, saline and voluminous impression on the finish."

Viticulture

The vineyards lie in and around the village of Saint-Pierre-de-Clages in the commune of Chomoson in the Valais region. Situated on the north side of the valley, Chomoson sits on steeply sided vineyards with schist soils. With more sunshine hours than Provence and swept with gentle winds the vineyards on the Chomoson side of the valley face south whilst those on the valley floor sit on alluvial soils receive sun all day. The north facing slopes on the southern side of the valley are also planted on schist.The Favres farm 7 ha and lease a further 6 ha covering 78 different plots. Farming is organic but not certified. Harvesting is done by hand.
