TERRAMATER

Producer

Founded in 1996 by sisters Edda, Gilda and Antonieta Canepa, TerraMater is a family estate rooted in Italian heritage and based in central Chile. Alongside international recognition for their olive oils, the winery has quietly developed a focused wine portfolio shaped by old vines and a clear sense of identity under winemaker Paula Cifuentes.

Tasting Notes

"Deep red ruby colour Attractive and elegant nose. Great varietal character. Plenty of red and black ripe berry fruit well assembled with some balsamic touches and some spicy notes Elegant and full bodied in the mouth. Good balance acidity gives a freshness sensation in the palate. Soft tannins with a long and persistent aftertaste. Great cellar potential." "· Colour: Very intense ruby red. · Aromas: Fresh nose. Cassis and fruity notes that mix with the toasted notes that come from the barrel. · Flavors: Middle mouth, elegant and round. Firm tannins. Medium acidity."

Winemaking

"Vines between 50 -60 years old. Clay loam deep colluvial soil, with Mediterranean weather. · Harvest: Good weather, almost without rain in the season. Grapes with good acidity and color concentration. Harvest took place in the third week of April. Located on Isla de Maipo, very close to the Maipo River. Trellis over 40 years old, with yields of approx. 8 ton/ha. Barracks located at the foot of Cerro Lonquén, a field sector with alluvial, deep and well-drained soils. "
